MOVE TOGETHER

On a sunny, rainy day,
my soul feels like a child again —
I long for peace and love
to change the balance in every heart.

Searching for truth, justice, and harmony,
we meet one another.
Safeguarding our resources and opportunities
for the next generations.
Learning to make an effort to bridge different beliefs.

With courage, we create a sustainable society.
To achieve something truly good,
we must work as one and move together.

Salt March, India 1930s

Rode Lijn protest Amsterdam, 2020s

RENEWAL - THE STORY CONTINUES

Outside my window a squirrel looks at a bird. The bird is digging for seeds, the squirrel is chewing at something sitting on its hind legs. A conversation is going on.
"Tell me , do you think humans are going to make it?" Asks the squirrel.
"Well," says the bird, "from this vantage point, I see a lot of movement. Maybe one of these days there will be a massive waking up. There is this group following a training called You Can Make a Difference that rocksss... and swings.... and shakes it up! Fine planetary navigators, these! Fine indeed..."
The squirrel sighs and keeps on chewing...
"Look at these two-legged animals that can't make peace with their own kind. I saw many of them trying to do this, but few can do useful things."
"This group seems different though," the bird replies.
And then they started listening to Mother Gaia. She always surprises us miraculously. She holds us together and protects us from two-legged destruction, in an alchemical process of transformation and renewal.

Gaia plant sculpture in Montreal, Canada, where Veronica used to live.

Started by Veronica and continued by Baharah, Lydia, Nina, Taha and Vito.

